We can see adumbrated in teenagers our attitudes toward religion, toward the arts and toward education more clearly than we can by looking at ourselves. We are likely to be more indulgent in looking at ourselves than at them; we smooth over our own exaggeration while we view theirs with alarm.

But I can see no reason why the simple statistic fact that there are going to be a great many more teenagers in the next few years should be cause for anything more than the usual alarm. Unquestionably they will cause problems, just as we caused problems when we are accustomed to, more telephones endlessly tied up, more records strewn around the living room floor, more starry-eyed young lovers, more hard questions to answer.

园子里的盛事，是每年第一次吃园子里的蔬菜，如果现在的说法应该叫吃“鲜”。奶奶总是要尽量等到家里人都到齐的时候，她为每一个人夹菜，最后才是她自己。津津有味地吃下这一口，她会说：“又吃到新豆角了”或者“又吃到新黄瓜了”然后说今年的豆角比去年的香，或今年的黄瓜比去年的水。其实未必那样，但奶奶总是那样说，总是那样认为。如果偶尔缺一个人，他都是十二分的遗憾，连续几天都会唠叨，咳，这孩子今年没吃到第一茬豆角，咳，这孩子没吃到今年第一茬黄瓜……
